WHO WE ARE

Our industry knows Valley Iron as a metal service center with a long history and a solid reputation. Our customers know us as their trusted source of consistently high-quality carbon, stainless steel and aluminum products, and exceptional customer service.

Serving Central and Northern California from locations in Fresno, Vacaville and Oroville, Valley Iron is a family-owned business focused on customer service and satisfaction. As a result, we have grown to be one of California's largest metal distribution centers offering metal products in every conceivable form, from structural steel tubing to stainless sheet metal to extruded aluminum shapes and more. Products are sourced from mills around the world, and carefully inventoried to meet the needs of our customers.

Valley Iron serves a broad customer base, from individuals with backyard projects to large commercial construction firms, ag equipment manufacturers, food processors and a wide range of OEMs.

While our product quality and variety of inventory keep our customers happy, Valley Iron's service and capabilities keep them coming back. With a full range of value-added processing, custom parts are all in a day's work. Choose from band saw cutting, shearing, water jet and high-definition plasma cutting, punching and drilling. Send us your electronic files or have us draw your parts from scratch; our machines will cut any shape you can imagine.

Service is at the heart of everything we do at Valley Iron — we invite you to experience it for yourself. We offer next day delivery on all orders called in by close of business each day. We will deliver your material on our own fleet of trucks or, if you prefer, we also offer will-call pickup.
